MEMBER PROFILE - JUNE 2005

Suzy Qawiyy

Suzy Qawiyy gives new meaning to the word "busy." She homeschools her children, serves as a Montgomery County crossing guard, teaches piano after school, and still finds time for her business, The Pampered Chef.

By organizing Pampered Chef home cooking parties, Suzy has combined her love for cooking with direct sales. She cooks before a previously assembled group, demonstrating the Pampered Chef array of cooking tools. Guests enjoy watching, playing games and relaxing. All tools are for sale, but there is never any pressure to buy. The hostess receives a number of presents, plus $15 to compensate her for groceries she purchased before the demonstration.

Pampered Chef has been in existence for 25 years. The company has recipes which appear in books meant for today's cooks and the tools to make them. All the recipes are easy and delicious; they utilize tasty, common ingredients. For example, Suzy may use Lemon Chicken Stir Fry to demonstrate the top quality of the Pampered Chef cookware and gadgets like the lemon zester, which some guests may not have used.

The Pampered Chef has cookware for the range and oven; good quality knives with a lifetime guarantee; a food chopper (with a 5 year warranty); stoneware for cookies, pies, muffins, cakes, etc. that work in the microwave as well as in the oven. There are also garlic presses, avocado peelers and all the "little utensils that make cooking easier," says Suzy. A recipe like Microwave Cake for Self-Frosting is always a big hit and can be completed in 12 minutes.

Suzy has been a Pampered Chef representative for four years. The products can be purchased at parties or through a consultant at any time. Suzy likes the products and "loves helping people to be better cooks."

A WBO member for about a year and a half, Suzy enjoys networking and chatting with other women who have their own businesses. "Being in a man's world can be overpowering," says Suzy, "so it's nice to meet other intelligent women."

Suzy, whose father was in the military, was born in England and has traveled all over the world. She went to college here, became a music instructor, and divides her professional time teaching students to play the piano and teaching adults how to use kitchen tools. "Adults are just kids who have gotten taller," says Suzy.

When Suzy is not busy, she likes to knit and read. "If you think about what you can do, the sky's the limit," she says. "Who would have thought when I went to school to study music education that I would be doing what I'm doing?" If you'd like to organize a Pampered Chef party, call Suzy Qawiyy at (301) 762-0716.
